Second opportunity to shape future health and care in Goole

Friday 20 June 2025, 3:30-6:30pm

The health and care board which oversees the NHS in Goole will be holding a second drop-in event about services in the town to give more people the chance to join in the conversation.

The NHS Humber and North Yorkshire Integrated Care Board, together with the Humber Health Partnership which runs Goole and District Hospital, is keen to reassure people about the future of the hospital, whilst giving residents the opportunity to talk about what is important to them and how they would like to see health services in the town developed and improved.

People can attend the Old Goole Working Men's Club, The Gables, Swinefleet Road, Goole DN14 5UN to share their views about health services, find out more about future ideas, ask questions and get involved in next steps.

Throughout June, NHS representatives will also continue to talk to Goole-based community groups to gather feedback, and people can also access more information through social media.

New report outlines potential for volunteering in social care across Humber and North Yorkshire

A new provides a greater understanding of social care volunteering across the Humber and North Yorkshire region. The report maps the current activity and provides perspectives from stakeholders, providers and partners.

The 'Volunteers at the Heart of the System' group, part of the - Breakthrough Workforce Transformation programme - is planning to review the report and work through the recommendations. They hope this will enable them to realise the opportunities to maximise the potential of volunteering in social care.

Transforming Primary Care podcast

How does sustainability and innovation can go hand-in-hand in primary care?

The latest episode of the Transforming Primary Care Podcast features Dr Aarti Bansal, Clinical Net Zero Lead for NHS Humber and North Yorkshire ICB, and Dr Rumina Önaç, a GP at Old School Medical Practice in York.

Alongside three other clinicians, they discuss how green initiatives can reduce the environmental impact of health and care, but also improve patient outcomes and support staff wellbeing.

News from Across the Partnership

Pets, pianos and potting plants

Think of hospitals, and most people think doctors and nurses, and yet for many people entering a hospital, one of the first people you're likely to bump into is a volunteer.

Hospitals across the Humber are full of them, more than 650 in fact, working across Goole, Hull, Grimsby, Castle Hill and Scunthorpe, and that's not including the four-legged variety!

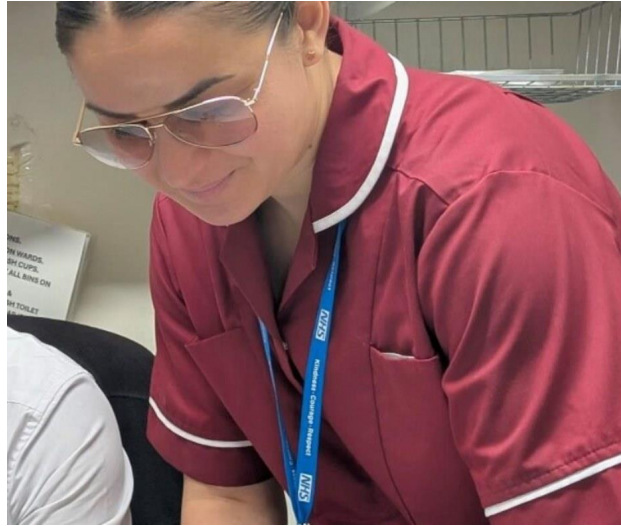

Their reasons for volunteering are many and varied: some want to share their talents such as Clive and Wendy who play piano each week for patients and visitors to the Queen's Centre; some want to gain experience to help with a future career in health; and others, like therapy dog Sammy who volunteers at Scunthorpe General Hospital, are just happy with a quick fuss and a treat.

Yet one thing they all have in common is the support they give to others, each playing an essential but sometimes unseen role in keeping our hospitals running smoothly.

Recruitment partnership helps more people to secure NHS jobs

If you have ever fancied a career in NHS Facilities but have been put off by the application process or lack of experience, there is some fantastic news for you.

Not only are we currently recruiting for Hospital Support Assistants, Porters and Catering Assistants, but thanks to an innovative partnership with our Department of Work and Pensions colleagues at the Jobcentre, Northern Lincolnshire and Goole NHS Foundation Trust has revolutionised our recruitment process to support you through the whole process – and help you to pick up some useful qualifications along the way.

The system has proved to be so successful, a quarter of the Trust's Facilities workforce at Scunthorpe has now been recruited using this method – and some have already progressed into team leader roles.
